RE: Disposition of record for Joleen Kwan

Arrest dates: 02/21/2002, 06/27/2002, 09/30/2002, 12/16/2002, 02/20/2003, 03/04/2003, 05/18/2003

Outcome: Cases were run concurrently. Served 14 months in prison. Completed parole.

I can not remember the exact circumstances of each arrest. I don't even remember getting arrested that many times. Prior to these arrests, I was in college full time and working as a medical assistant part-time. Then I had gotten raped. The trauma from the incident made it impossible for me to focus or concentrate in school so I ended up dropping out. I started to use drugs to cope with having been violated. When I realized I need help in dealing with the rape I told my parents about it and they blamed me for it. So I left my house and became homeless and heavily addicted to methamphetamine. Resulting in me getting arrested numerous times within the span of under 2 years before going to prison. The laws have changed since 20 years ago. At that time, any amount you possessed was a felony and if it was in 2 bags, it was considered a sales charge, no matter how small the amount. Had I been arrested with the amounts I had then, today, I would have just been cited out and I would have never been sent to prison, nor would I have been charged with sales. The amounts I had were too small by today's standards to be considered possession for sale even if it was in 2 different bags. 2 months prior to my arrest date 05/18/2003, I had been raped again, although this time was much more violent. I was tied up blind folded and gagged with a knife held to my throat. Getting arrested on 05/18/2003 was a blessing in disguise. While incarcerated at the county jail, I was able to receive the help I needed. I was diagnosed with having PTSD and severe depression. I saw a psychiatrist, a rape counselor, a trauma recovery specialist, and a therapist every week till I was transferred to prison on arrest date 01/13/2004.

Arrest date: 01/13/2004

Outcome: This is not really an arrest date. I was incarcerated at the time. This was the day I was transferred from county jail to prison. I finished serving my sentence 07/22/2004.

Arrest date: 12/10/2005

After completing parole successfully in 13 months, I relapsed and got arrested again on 12/05/2005.

Outcome: Completed probation in 13 months

Arrest date: 09/07/2011

Outcome: Case Dismissed

I was no longer a heavy drug user. I was back in school. And I would only use drugs on occasion, like at a party. I started dating someone who cheated on me with a girl that was very jealous. Although I did not know about her, she knew all about me and knew I had a drug sales on my record. So to get me out of the picture, she called the police and made up a whole bunch of stuff about me that was not true. The police then acted on it and tried to set me up and bust me selling drugs. But when they arrested me I had no drugs on me because I was not selling drugs or in possession of any. Once they realized they had no probable cause to arrest me, they took my blood and charged me with under the influence even though I was not under the influence. The test came up positive because I had done drugs at a party a couple nights prior to the incident. The police then fabricated a story giving them probable cause to arrest me, which I was able to prove in court that they were lying and the case got dismissed.

Outcome: Probation for 13 months. Completed.

My neighbor called the police claiming there was domestic violence in my apartment. But I was alone. When I opened the door and saw the police, I was surprised. They told me that they got a call of domestic violence coming from my apartment. I told them that that was impossible because I was alone, I then proceeded to close the door and the officer pushed me backwards, grabbed me and moved me to the side and proceeded to enter my apartment looking for another person. Once he realized no one else was there he then proceeded to ask me if anything in my house was stolen. I told him no. He asked for my ID and had the person on his intercom look up my name. Once he was told I had been arrested previously for drugs, he asked me if I had any drugs, I said no. I asked him to please leave now that he can see no one else is here. He then began to look around my house, but then knowing he was not allowed to search without a warrant, he made me open my dresser drawers so he can see in them, open cabinets so he could look through them, open boxes, and basically search my own house for him. He had me go through every pants pocket of my pants and every Jacket pocket of my jackets. Finally, in a jacket that I had not worn in years, a baggie fell on the floor which had a little bit of residue inside it. And he arrested me for that and fabricated the police report saying that I was acting so crazy that when they came to the door they had to subdue me. And that I was so out of my mind on drugs I just showed him where my drugs were. I was also able to prove that the police were lying and my resisting arrest charge got dropped. But the DA told me that I still had to take the possession charge and the under the influence charge since I test positive for drugs which I had used a couple days before at a spring break party.

Arrest date: 09/30/2014

Outcome: Probation for 3 years. Completed.

I was currently on probation from the last arrest. I was one month away from completing it successfully when the police showed up at my door. Apparently, my sister had embezzled $200,000 dollars from Apple Computer and they came to ask me if I knew anything about it, which I did not. She actually had owed my parents and I a lot of money so it was actually disturbing to know that while she was screwing over her family for money, while she had all this money she had been stealing from Apple. They insist I was involved or that I knew about it because my sister had opened a PO BOX at the post office by my house where she would send things too. But I had no clue she had a POBOX there. They kept insisting that I knew something and wasn't telling them. I kept telling them that I didn't know anything. At that point, the officer shuts off the tape recording and starts to threaten me telling me that if I don't tell him any information, he is going make trouble for me. He tells me he is going to turn me in to the IRS for not doing my taxes. I tell him that I really don't know anything but he doesn't believe me. He then pulls out a bag of dope from nowhere and tells me that if I don't give him information he needs, he is going to charge me with possession which with violate my probation, and I will go to jail. He leaves and tells me I have until the next morning to call him and tell him what he wants to know. But I don't call him because I don't know anything. He charges me with possession the next morning. My probation gets violated I get arrested at remanded at court. The judge makes a condition that I can only get out by being accepted to an in-patient drug program.

But the drug programs will not except me because I haven't been using drugs and I have no positive tests. So I am stuck in jail for 3 months till my next court date. At which point I lose my apartment and every thing I own and have due to being incarcerated.

My parents during this time, had apologized for blaming me for getting raped and apologized for not being supportive when they should have. They asked me to move out here to Vegas because they are getting old and would like to spend time with me before they die. I thought it was a great idea. I wanted a fresh new start and to get away from the police who had been making it impossible for me to move on with my life because they keep showing up at my house and making up stuff to arrest me for. I have been clean and sober since 2012.

I am no longer on probation as of 2015 and have paid off all my fines and fees. As of 2014 the law had changed and the felony charges for possession are no longer felony charges. They are considered misdemeanors. But they only back date it to 2010. I am trying to get the arrests from 20 years ago changed to misdemeanors and I have put in a request to do so. And although I have put in the request numerous times, they have yet to respond since their offices were closed for a really long time due to COVID.

Please call me or email me if you have any questions or concerns. My phone number is

SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA

APPELLATE DIVISION

PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA,

Plaintiff and Respondent,

v.

JOLEEN Y. KWAN,

Defendant and Appellant.

No. 2015-1-AP-001956

Trial Ct No. C1492697

ORDER TRANSFERRING APPEAL TO SIXTH DISTRICT COURT OF APPEAL

Appellant Joleen Y. Kwan was charged by felony complaint with possession of a controlled substance, methamphetamine, in violation of Health and Safety Code section 11377, subdivision (a). On October 20, 2014, she waived her right to a preliminary hearing, the complaint was certified to the superior court, and she pleaded no contest to the felony charge. Then, on November 25, 2014, the sole felony charge was reduced to a misdemeanor under Proposition 47 and Kwan was granted probation for two years under Proposition 36. Both a misdemeanor notice of appeal and a felony notice of appeal were ultimately filed. The appeal is

1 currently pending in the Appellate Division, but it is unclear what, if any, action has been taken
2 on the felony notice of appeal.

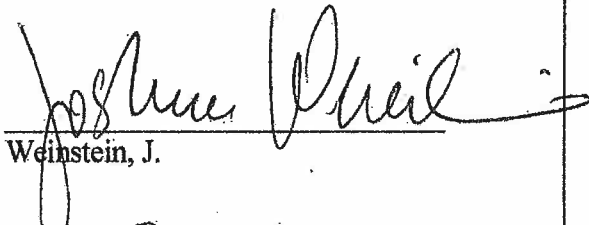

3 In response to an order for briefing, both parties agree that appellate jurisdiction over this
4 case lies with the Court of Appeal and not with the Appellate Division. We agree. (People v.
5 Lynall (2015) 233 Cal.App.4th 1102, 1105 [“appellate jurisdiction in cases where a defendant is
6 charged with a felony in an information, an indictment, or in a complaint that has been certified
7 to the superior court under [Penal Code] section 859a lies with the Court of Appeal, even if
8 Proposition 47 subsequently reduced the charged offense to a misdemeanor”].)

9 As we do not have jurisdiction to consider this appeal, it is transferred to the Sixth
10 District Court of Appeal.¹
